

BRAKEMAN MAY RECOVER FROM GRAVE INJURY

Hopes of recovery by R. C. Hill, a brakeman whose leg was crushed when an engine crashed into a string of cars in the lower Santa Fe yards last night, was held out at St. Joseph's hospital today.

Hill's left leg was so badly mangled that immediate amputation was necessary. He was rushed to St. Joseph's and three military surgeons, Drs. W. R. Lovelace, J. W. Elder and J. H. Wreth, were summoned. The leg was cut off above the knee.

At that time Hill's condition was serious and the outcome of the accident was in doubt. He rallied well, however, and this morning it was said that he was resting satisfactorily and stood a good chance of recovering.

The accident occurred shortly after 10 o'clock. Hill was riding on an engine that was coupled to a freight train. A switch engine backed the cars toward the other engine. The freight locomotive and the cars came together with a crash and Hill was trapped. The cars were not derailed.

NEW REPEATER SHOWS WELL IN HARD TEST

The new audion lamp repeater equipment, installed recently at the local telephone office, showed its value yesterday when, by its aid, Miss Adell Kain, of the Equitable Motion Picture company here, talked direct with the New York office of the company and secured an unusually clear conversation.

"I could hear the office just as well as if I had been in New York myself," she said.

The audion equipment has been in use for several weeks, especially on lines to nearby points on independent lines, where the circuits are not all they should be, but this is the first New York call that has gone over it except the company's tests.

TEACHERS ASKED TO HELP FARMERS BY SAVING BIRDS

Federal Game Warden Sends a Letter to every Schoolma'am and Schoolmaster in This Vicinity.

To every school teacher in this vicinity R. B. Craig, federal game warden at Santa Fe, is sending the following letter in the interest of greater protection for insectivorous and migratory birds: the department of agriculture has set out to see that every teacher in the United States gets the appeal.

"To the School Teachers of New Mexico:

The purpose of this letter is to awaken your interest and enlist your cooperation in the protection of the migratory and insectivorous birds of your state. When you realize that unless active measures are taken and assistance rendered by the people extinction threatens many valuable species, the importance of the subject will be made plain. It has been shown that birds save the farmer millions of dollars each year, and that the toll they exact in return for their services is trifling. Scarcely less important to mankind than the practical value of birds is their esthetic value, since without their bright plumage and beautiful songs the world would be far less attractive.

"Until recently large numbers of birds, including many insectivorous species, have been destroyed for millinery purposes. Many others fall victim to the small boy with the 22-caliber rifle, which is too often employed every evening and all day on every Saturday on every living bird within range, including song birds. You can assist in the good work by giving a few moments occasionally to the instruction of your pupils in the value of insectivorous and migratory birds, teaching them their value both from the practical and esthetic standpoint. If you can induce them to actively assist in the work by putting up bird houses and by feeding hungry birds, especially in winter, a long step will have been taken in their education. Today the trend of the American people is towards the conservation of our natural resources. The protection of birds is in line with the conservation principle and is indeed a very important part of it. Your efforts in this direction will be greatly appreciated, and any data that will assist you in the work will be cheerfully furnished. Publications that bear directly on the subject may be had by applying to the bureau of biological survey, department of agriculture, Washington, D. C. Very truly yours,

R. B. CRAIG,
Federal Warden.

THREAD OF ROMANCE RUNS THROUGH DRAMA OF SOCIAL UNREST

Love is the great theme in "The Melting Pot," and while social problems have place in the famous story the entire theme is lifted and made charming by clean, helpful sentiment.

Vera Revendal (the role in which Crystal Herte is given ample scope), daughter of cruel Baron Revendal, famous throughout Russia for his tyrannical treatment and abuse of the Jews, is deeply in love with David Quixano (Walker Whiteside), the Jewish dreamer and musician.

Dorothy Dix, a well known writer on sentimental topics for newspapers, started a national discussion when she said: "Vera Revendal is an unnatural character for the reason that no woman could love like this Russian woman did and rise to the heights by refusing a love greater than race hatred. Womanly weakness would not allow it. When David says to her, 'You love and you leave me,' what else can I do? Shall the shadow of Kishineff hang over all your years to come? Shall I kiss you and leave blood upon your lips, cling to you and be pushed away by all those cold, dead hands?"

"I am one woman—and there must be millions more—who glory in the manhood of David, when he replied: 'Yes, cling to me, despite the all-cling to me till all these shadows are exorcised, cling to me till our love triumphs over death.' Where, oh where, is the woman who could withstand such love?"

With Walker Whiteside, Crystal Herte, John Blair, Grant Stewart and a select cast of metropolitan players, "The Melting Pot" leaves nothing to be desired in the art of acting, and with superb direction and lavish staging the photo-drama is second to none other as a finished production.

Tomorrow afternoon—2 and 5:30—and at 7:30 and 9 o'clock at night, and the same hours on Saturday, the Crystal should see "Billed to capacity" audiences, for it is seldom when an unusual attraction may be enjoyed at the small prices that have been made for Albuquerque.

DESERTER WILL BE SENT TO PASS CITY

Chief of Police McMillin today made arrangements to send back to El Paso James Amburgy, a deserter from the Sixth infantry stationed at Fort Bliss. Amburgy was arrested by the chief yesterday. He was working on an irrigation project on the mesa. Amburgy deserted at El Paso last December. Chief McMillin received a circular describing him from the army authorities and kept on the lookout for him.

TRIO OF MAJOR LEAGUE BASKET GAMES SECURED

Agricultural College and Silver City Normal School Boys and Girls to Meet University Players.

Announcement was made this morning by R. F. Hutchinson, director of athletics at the University, of the scheduling of a trio of strong attractions in the basketball field to be presented in this city.

The men's and women's teams from the Silver City Normal school will journey to this city for a half of doubleheader dates with the varsity quintet and sextet, to be played at the armory February 4 and 5.

These teams, especially the men's team, are said to be stronger than any competitors in the state, or perhaps in the southwest. They have been defeating their opponents with almost monotonous regularity and their dates with the varsity teams, which have been showing unusual class this year, will be looked forward to by all local lovers of the basket game.

The varsity-normal men's games especially will be of interest, as the varsity now stands at the top of the city league and barely has been forced to extend itself to defeat other local teams, if scores are any indication, while the normal five is practically the same as it was last year, when it annexed the state championship with ease.

The games with Agricultural college teams also will be of unusual interest because of the spirit of rivalry between the two institutions. The Aggies play the Normals this week, so that the games in Silver City, with the series to be played here, practically will determine the state championships.

In fact they probably will be the official basis for the championships, unless some other institution brings forward a team that can contest honors successfully with the leaders of the series.

The Aggies' men's and women's teams play here the eleventh of February.

PLANS FOR BIG LUMBER YARD TO BE CARRIED OUT

Company Buys Not Only Lots in Original Deal, but Four More; To Duplicate El Paso Plant.

Plans for the establishment of a lumber yard here by D. E. Gibson of Canon City, Colo., which were announced as pending last week, will not only be carried through, but on an extended scale.

The pending purchase of lots at Ninth avenue and First street has been consummated and an additional four lots have been bought. The second purchase was closed yesterday, the four lots in the deal being sold by John and Henry Mann. It was a cash transaction, $10,000 changing hands when the papers were turned over. CALIFORNIA MAY GET SECOND BAD STORM SHORTLY

Weather Bureau Officials Prognosticate Another Era of Wind and Snow That Will Equal Recent One.

[By Evening Herald Special Wire] San Francisco, Jan. 27.—Darkened skies, heavy rains along the coast and the lowest barometric pressure ever recorded in San Francisco were the opening phases today of what weather officials said would be a storm, equaling one just passed, which caused millions of dollars worth of damage and a score of deaths.

"There's two feet of water in the telephone office," said a telegraph operator at San Diego, talking over the wire, and the next instant his wire was gone. The streets there and in Los Angeles ran curb-high with flood waters, and the rain still fell. The town of Avalon, on Catalina Island, which was burned out several months ago, is flooded in portions today. Long Beach, an all-year resort of 10,000 persons, reported itself flooded, as it was a week ago.

We figure just HOW LOW we can make the price when the season opens and sell it for that day after day. We don't try to see how much we can get for it in November, when selling time is good, and then cut the price on the "left overs" in January. We give you the January price in November.
